

Your closet is actually a time machine. Write about your first unexpected voyage.

A famous painting is stolen...HOW did you do it???

Write a story that begins with: "Today, it rained the weirdest thing ever..."

Write a story backwards, starting with the final line: "The door closed, and it was over."

Write a story with only 50 words.

You found an egg...but what is the weird thing that hatched from it? Write a story about it.

You are a pesky bird bothering all sorts of people. Write a story from the bird's perspective.

Imagine you can travel through the books in a library, like they are real places. Where do you go? What do you do? Who do you meet?

Write a scary story about a totally un-scary thing

What are you most proud of? Interview three people you know, and report on their answers.

Write a story that takes place on another planet. But you can't use the word "spaceship."

Write about finding something under your bed you NEVER expected.

What if you and an animal in your neighborhood switched places for 24 hours? Write a story about it.

Write a story that includes the sentence: "The sky opened, briefly."