

Here is a tiny sample of my sense of place of the library.
It contains layers of possibilities and connections to every call number I tried to memorize every time I found a missing book everyone who borrowed a book before me everyone who will borrow it in the future the unseen labor that makes a library work.